

Our work is as vital and urgent as it was when Rights of Women was established in 1975.

Without it, women continue to experience violence, abuse and discrimination and as a result cannot play an equal role in society.

The law is complex and confusing. We want to make sure that, at some of the most difficult times in their lives, women have access to clear and accurate information about the law and their legal rights.

We deliver a range of high quality and accessible services aimed at increasing women's understanding of the law and ability to seek justice.

help us provide legal advice and support to more than 2000 women each year

As women increasingly find themselves unable to access legal advice and representation, our advice lines provide a safe space for women to talk about their situation and receive expert legal advice to enable them to make important decisions about their future.

“ I feel like I have got my life back. I've been worrying about this for two years. I feel empowered to make the right decisions. ” help us provide vital and up to date legal information to thousands of women each year

As more women find themselves having to navigate the law without representation, our website and publications provide affordable and practical legal information on the issues affecting them in order to improve their understanding of and access to the law and legal systems.

“ All of your publications are excellent resources clearly laid out, succinct and empowering for women who face difficult situations and those who support them. ”

help us help professionals meet women's legal advice and information needs

As more women turn to non-legal professionals for support, we provide high quality and practical training and events to professionals on key areas of law affecting women, ensuring that they are able to better support the legal advice and information needs of women.

“ An invaluable service which gives great advice and peace of mind for women who too often feel overpowered by the legal system. ”

help us to continue to push for real change to women's legal rights

We know that the law still needs to change to meet the needs of women and to end the violence, abuse and discrimination they experience. We campaign to improve the legal rights and remedies available to women and their access to them.

“ Rights of Women has done really important work in highlighting issues of concern for women – which have for so long been ignored by the mainstream. ”

With your support we can continue to provide these vital services for women, ensuring that they have access to free legal advice and information and that law and policy reflects their needs.
